The standout feature of this commercial backup system is its substantial 50kWh storage capacity. This large energy reserve ensures ample power supply to support critical operations during grid outages or periods of high demand. It provides peace of mind, knowing that your business can continue running smoothly even in challenging circumstances.

But for electric vehicles, commercial storage, or large factories, 50kWh may only last for a few hours of operation. How Many Homes Can 50kw Power? It depends on the average power usage of the home. If the average power usage in a European home is around 0.5kW, then 50kW could supply power to about 100
